Air Serbia to transport Georgian Post's international mail and parcels.

NEWS FLASH Georgian Post and Air Serbia have signed a partnership agreement under which the Georgian national postal operator will use Air Serbia's flights to transport parcels and mail. Georgian Post said the new partnership will enable it to provide customers with "even faster, more reliable and more efficient international postal services". Air Serbia currently operates three weekly flights between Belgrade and Tbilisi. Giorgi Eradze, Director General of Georgian Post, said the airline's extensive international network would help strengthen the postal operator's global logistics links and enhance its international delivery capabilities. "Cooperation with Air Serbia will further strengthen our international logistics capabilities and allow us to offer our customers more flexible, efficient and high-quality international postal services. Our goal is to continuously improve the customer experience and service quality by expanding our international partnerships", Mr Eradze said.
